The "Recruiting Index", with its 47 evaluation parameters, is the most complete and all-encompassing self-evaluation app for students about to be recruited in the world of work.

The values that are determined are the result of a complex algorithm that condenses thousands of data and information into the three macro-areas covered: education, hard skills and soft skills.

Once completed, each student is associated with:

- Employability Rate: rate of "employability", in order to discover in real time one's "attractiveness" on the labor market and, consequently, understand by how much one's profile needs to be improved
- Strengths and weaknesses: aptitude framework aimed at entering the world of work

The "Recruiting Index" has been set up with the support of Regione Lombardia, and has been used by several companies and master schools, such as the "Collège des Ingénieurs", leading MBA in the field of postgraduate management training.
