

SMART WORKING, FINE LIVING AND FARM SUPPORTING IN AN ITALIAN BORGO

PRESS KIT

«Away from the cities: in the old villages lies our future»: in response to the scenario evoked by international archistar and urban planner Stefano Boeri, Borgo Office is born, a revolutionary project of "smart working + farm supporting", designed to reconcile, through a skilful interlocking of the pieces, the needs of all those involved: smart workers, farms and villages.

It is the evolution of the "workation" concept: before the pandemic, the business trip was extended with a few days of vacation, now you travel with your computer. 78% have already decided they will combine the two.

Hence the challenge of Borgo Office: select, through a careful screening, charming "smart working friendly" farmhouses (best equipped in this sense, with Wi-Fi, printer, workdesk with a view) in italian "borghi", famous in the world for their beauty and uniqueness, that are available to host for free digital nomads wishing to work from remote far from the cities. In return, the latter purchase a support package of the host farm composed of km 0 baskets with its crops and products and experiences on the spot, selectable between different sizes, to support it in its business, thus generating a "win-win-win "model among the three parties involved: digital nomads, eager to work from remote in a beautiful place in the nature in an enchanting italian borgo; the farm, which is economically supported in the face of simple hospitality; the village where the farm is located, which exploits induced profits due to smart working tourism».

Experiences on the spot are unique opportunities to fully savor the taste of "made in Italy". A few examples: a romantic dinner in the vineyard, olive harvest, with subsequent grinding and packaging of extra virgin olive oil, thermal baths bike tour, cooking class with tasting of products and lunch prepared together with the guests, and many more.
